1994 - Master Degree in Architecture, Politecnico di Milano

Andreas Kipar, landscape architect, urban planner and architect, is founder and CEO of LAND, an international landscape architecture and consultancy firm with offices in Austria, Canada, Germany, Italy, Saudi Arabia, and Switzerland.

He holds a degree in Landscape Architecture (GHS University Essen, Dipl. Ing) and a degree in Architecture and Urban Planning (Politecnico di Milano, Dott. Arch.). Since 2009, he is Visiting Professor at the Politecnico di Milano, where he teaches landscape architecture and public space design.

In 2007, he was awarded the Federal Cross of Merit on Ribbon for his voluntary work in German-Italian exchange. Since November 2023, he is member of the global task force of experts for the Nature-positive cities initiative within World Economic Forum. In 2024, he was awarded the Halstenberg-Prize by the DASL of North Rhine-Westphalia, a recognition of outstanding and pioneering achievements in urban and regional planning.

Andreas Kipar is the originator of Milan's "Raggi Verdi" (green rays) model, which links different city areas to promote a new slow mobility from the centre to the periphery. This model, internationally recognised as pioneering green urban planning, has also been applied in Essen, the 2017 European Green Capital.

His work has been recognised with more than 20 prestigious international awards, including the Mercury Prize, the MIPIM Award, the Wan Awards, the Biennale di Pisa, the Passive and Low Energy Architecture Award (PLEA) and the European Garden Award 2023.

6 years of working experience at LAND

28 years of working experience

Role:

Chief Operating Officer

Education and Professional titles:

1998 - Master Degree in Architecture at Politecnico di Milano

1998 - Licence to practice

During more than 25 years of professional experience as an architect, client representative and contractor, Jens designed and built various building typologies, and lately developed urban and territorial transformation projects, guiding both private and public clients through the dynamics of environmental, social, and economic factors, with a focus on enhancing the well-being of both urban and rural spaces, to benefit people and the planet.

In his professional career working and living in different countries in Europe, North America and Middle East, Jens has experienced the importance of landscape as a moderator between disciplines and cultures to provide an integrated vision that considers all meaningful aspects of urban planning within a collaborative process.

Since 2020, Jens has been appointed Chief Operating Officer and board member at LAND, overseeing strategic internal and external operational processes with clients, partners both on a management and design level.
